KENYON URGES U. S. RULE IN COAL INDUSTRY

Offers Bill Authorizing President to Take Over Coal Properties in Emergency

OFFERS COMPANION BILL TO PENALIZE COAL PROFITEERS

Proposes Carefully Graded System of Profits for Operators

WASHINGTON, —The president would be authorized to take over and operate coal properties in a national fuel emergency under a bill introduced Saturday by Senator Kenyon, republican, Iowa, chairman of the senate labor committee.

Senator Kenyon's bill would be a substitute for the general coal control bill in effect defeated by the senate last summer and would give the federal trade commission broad powers in supervising coal industry. A companion bill introduced by Senator Kenyon, who has charge of the investigation of disorders in the West Virginia coal region, would penalize profiteering in coal and fix operators and distributers profits.

The maximum profit proposed for operators would be fifty cents a ton and forty cents for distributors. A graded system of profits was proposed, scaled according to volume handled.

The coal control bill would give the federal trade commission authority to require complete information regarding costs profits and all other details of their business from operators and distributors. The commission also would be empowered to declare when a national fuel emergency existed and the president's functions then would be called into operation through an executive proclamation.

During the emergency, to be ended by a presidential proclamation, the president would be empowered to fix prices, take over and operate mines, transport and sell coal. He also would have power to fix miners' wages which would be a "reasonable living" standard.

The bill also would give the commission authority to inspect books and other papers of coal operators and dealers with severe penalties for refusal. Another feature would impose a new federal brokerage tax upon coal brokers selling to other than consumers, a feature designed to prevent pyramiding of prices.

Supervision of the interstate commerce commission over coal rates and of activities of the geological survey and bureau of mines in the coal industry also would be extended.

PLAN DRIVE FOR SALVATION ARMY LATE IN OCTOBER

Local Organizations to Assist in Work of Raising Funds for Big Organization

INTERESTING TALKS MARK DINNER ON FRIDAY EVENING

F. H. Burgess Chairman of the Local Campaign Committee

At a six o'clock dinner held on Friday at the Chamber of Commerce, in the interests of the Salvation Army, plans were laid for a local drive for funds which will be conducted October 24-25 simultaneously with the world-wide drive.

F. H. Burgess was unanimously chosen general chairman of the drive for funds and he appointed the following persons to bring the matter before the various organizations of the city to assist him in the drive: Elks, Wm. H. Meyer, Joseph Bruha, John Fay; Merchants' bureau, Chamber of Commerce, H. Burrows; Kiwanis, Otto Muenster; La Crosse Woman's club, Mrs. Schlabach, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Bistenes; Eagles, George Krause; American Legion, Wm. H. Strehl; La Crosse County Community council, Mrs. E. C. Thompson; Twentieth Century club, Mrs. A. E. Soderberg. Miss Charlotte Kohn was elected secretary pro tem.

The extent of the work which the Salvation Army is doing in La Crosse is shown very clearly by statistics which have been compiled by Captain H. I. Ryan, in charge of the work here. From September 1, 1920, to September 1, 1921, the local post held 188 open air meetings with an attendance of 13,508; 208 indoor meetings with an attendance of 4,508, and 52 company meetings with an attendance of 1,707. The workers visited 3,253 families and the hours of visitation numbered 1,500. Relief was given to 1,022 families and 500 garments and three outfits to expectant mothers were given out.

Gives Illustrated Talk

Captain George Wilson of Milwaukee, head of the lake district forces of the Salvation Army in which Wisconsin is included, showed a reel of "movies" illustrating the various events that come up in the life of the Salvation Army worker. He also gave a short talk on the history of the army and its work. He illustrated his talk with stereopticon views. Captain Wilson quoted ex-Vice President Marshall who said of Evangeline Booth, commanding the United States forces of the Salvation Army, "I have met many great men but the greatest man I have ever met was not a man at all but a woman, and that woman is Evangeline Booth."

"The activities of the army are very widespread," said Captain Wilson. "We maintain in many cities, boarding homes for working girls who are earning less than $20 per week. We also maintain a missing friend bureau which usually finds one out of every three persons sought.

"This bureau aids in locating the fathers of illegitimate children thereby working in close connection with our rescue homes or maternity hospitals. One of these hospitals is situated in St. Paul and has been caring for many Wisconsin cases. We recently started a maternity hospital at Milwaukee to care for Wisconsin cases."

Tells of Childrens' Farms

Captain Wilson also discussed the childrens' farms, as they are called. They are in reality orphans' homes but are called farms. Captain Wilson introduced Captain and Mrs. H. I. Ryan, who recently came from Marquette, Mich., to take charge of the local post of the Salvation Army.

Dr. G. R. Reay brought before the meeting the plan of having a Salvation Army boarding home for working girls in this city. Since there was some doubt as to whether there were enough girls here who needed such a home, Captain Ryan will discuss the matter with the social workers of the city and gather statistics bearing on the case before application for the home is made.

QUESTION MORTIMER AS TO CONNECTION WITH CAR UTILITY

CHICAGO, Ill.—C. Fred Mortimer, state's attorney of Sangamon county, is to be asked to appear next Tuesday for questioning at the hearing of the Illinois commerce commission on the petition to reduce the rates on Chicago surface lines, Chester E. Cleveland, special assistant corporation counsel, announced Saturday.

The announcement followed testimony before the commission Friday by W. W. Garley, chief counsel for the traction company that Mr. Mortimer had been retained to appear as counsel for the traction company at the same time he was serving as a public official.

State's Attorney Mortimer was active in securing the indictments of Governor Small, on charges of embezzling state funds while state treasurer. Governor Small has asserted the indictment was part of a plan of the traction company and other interests to discredit him.

TAG DAY IS BIG SUCCESS SUBSTANTIAL SUM RAISED FOR THE VISITING NURSES

Have you been tagged? If not, you aren't in style today.

Nearly everyone in La Crosse is wearing a tag today, and even though the money is not counted as yet, it is certain that the campaign to raise funds for the visiting nurses was a success.

Despite a disagreeable, cold wind, an army of women and girls sallied forth early Saturday morning with armsful of tags and pennants and remained at their task throughout the day. Every section of the city was covered. Dozens of workers were stationed in the down town district, every corner being patrolled.

Autos were tagged with pennants, while pedestrians were given little blue card-boards in return for the coins dropped in the boxes.

The money will be counted tonight and the amount of the donations will be announced in the Sunday morning edition of the Tribune and Leader-Press.

MAIL BANDIT GIVES HIMSELF UP AFTER SPENDING MONEY

Traveled in West for Two Years Under Own Name Without Being Questioned

WANTED FOR BIG MAIL ROBBERY IN CHICAGO TWO YEARS AGO

Surrenders to Police in Windy City Friday

CHICAGO, Ill.—For two years Carl Stieler, Jr., wanted in connection with the $2,000,000 mail robbery at Whiting, Ind., in 1919, traveled throughout the west under his own name, gave Chicago as his home address, spent his share of the money, amounting to $45,000, and was never once questioned or even suspected.

This was the story he told to authorities, following his return here Friday and his surrender to the police. With his wife he returned here and went to the home of his father, admitted he had spent the last of his money and surrendered when his father called the police. He admitted his part in the robbery, according to the authorities. The robbery was committed at Whiting, Ind., on August 23, 1919, when a mail sack containing waste paper was exchanged for a mail sack containing $2,000,000 belonging to the Standard Oil company.

The next day three men were arrested and admitted their implication. About $181,000 was recovered.

Stieler told the police he left Chicago with Bessie Jasiak, whom he married at Los Angeles under his own name while the papers were full of accounts and pictures of him. Later he entered an aviation school, was injured and the fact was reported in the newspapers, his own name being used. He bought two $6,000 airplanes and a $5,000 racing car, but smashed both planes within a few week, he said.

A year ago he said he purchased another airplane and toured Arizona, New Mexico and Texas under his own name, giving flying exhibitions. In Texas his money ran out and he sold the plane for about one-fourth of what it cost. With his wife he then went to Memphis and later to Jackson, Tenn., where he received forty dollars for doing aerial stunts, he told the police. From Jackson the couple came back to Chicago, Stieler stating he had decided to give himself up.

MRS. T. H. SPENCE DIES AT HER HOME SATURDAY MORNING

Well Known Woman Dies After Lingering Illness—Funeral Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Ada Myckoff, wife of T. Spence died at her home, 920 King street early Saturday morning, after a lingering illness.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Elbert W., her mother, Mrs. Samuel Wyckoff of Corona, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Kelly also of Corona, Cal., and Mrs. L. C. Colman of this city.

The funeral will be held from the residence, 920 King street Monday afternoon at four o'clock. Friends will please omit flowers.

The owner of the $271 which was handed out promiscuously by a stranger to William Gilette, 1402 Vine street, called at the police station Friday and claimed the money after being identified by Gilette as the man who had turned over the money to him for safe keeping about ten days ago.

Police officials were requested not to disclose the name of the man, but said that he is a former prominent citizen of La Crosse. As a reward for his action in turning the money over to the police, Gilette was handed a twenty dollar bill.

BUFFINGTON BOY WAS MURDERED DECLARES CORONER AT CHICAGO

Hoffman Seeks Motive for Crime; Tragedy Re-enacted by Boy Scout

CHICAGO—"The boy was murdered before he was hung in the closet. Now to find the motive for the crime."

After watching the re-enactment of the hanging of Samuel Buffington, 14 year old Hyde Park High school sophomore, who was found suspended from a pole, his hands tied behind him, at his home at 1428 East 65th street, last Sunday, Coroner Peter M. Hoffman voiced his opinion.

Cecil Campbell, 5515 Harper avenue, 14 years old and a fellow scout in Troop 514 with Samuel, re-enacted the deed Friday afternoon. Cecil, a bit nervous under the scrutiny of the police, after passing the rope over a curtain pole and slipping a noose over his neck, tied a slipknot about his hands and passed it over both wrists, his hands behind him. He wound the rope five times about his wrists and then tied a loose knot in the end.

Pole Easily Dislodged

A four foot pole, its ends resting on a thin molding, was placed across the closet. It was demonstrated that any one twisting violently would dislodge the pole. Also, when the ropes were tightened about Cecil's neck the marks made were much higher up than those on Samuel's. The towel found on the rope near the dead boy's neck might have been used as a gag to prevent outcry. The coroner expressed the belief the boy was strangled first and then hanged on the pole in the closet.

At a morning re-enactment of the scene in his office the coroner expressed the opinion that in order to write a realistic theme on crime for a high school class Samuel had tried a hanging on himself to learn the proper emotions. But at the afternoon's affair he changed definitely to the murder theory.

Mother Supports Murder Theory

Mrs. Charles Pinkham, mother of the boy also favored the murder theory. He might have known something that somebody didn't want him to tell was all she would say. The coroner ordered another re-enactment for Monday.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "accidental death due to asphyxiation by strangulation" at the inquest over the body of Edward Knaus, 14, 4012 North Richmond street, Edward, the second boy to be found hanged within a week, was found by his sister Loretta Thursday night, swinging from a beam in the basement of the Knaus home.

YOUR MONEY'S SERVICE

SOCIAL SERVICE SOCIETY

LA CROSSE has no slum district—but it has many slum homes scattered over certain parts of the city, and a few neighborhoods where constructive social work can not fail to be of service. But this accomplishment requires the concerted help of the community, both in actual work and in the giving of money. We must approach our problems of unemployment and bad housing, not always abstractly, but concretely by bettering the condition for individual families.

La Crosse will continue to have its slum homes in every part of the city until it makes a concerted effort in volunteer service and personal interest as well as the payment of membership dues and contributions to keep paid workers at the task of bettering community conditions.

To carry on the work properly in a town the size of ours, it requires more interest, more workers, and much more money. Until the Society is adequately supported by the community, our hearts will ache at the sight of neglected children on the street corners and in their barren homes, and we will hear frightful stories of need and poverty.

Just as a chain is weakened by a flaw, so is the strength of the community life weakened by neglected children.

Help the Social Service Society keep the home fires in your town burning.

FARMERS RECEIVING MARKET NEWS OVER WIRELESS PHONES

Connect up Instruments in Their Own Homes to Get Reports from Wisconsin "U"

CONCERTS GIVEN EVENINGS BY THE UNIVERSITY BAND

University Co-operating With State Market Bureau

MADISON, Wis.—Farmers over central Wisconsin and northern Illinois are already connecting wireless telephones to their living rooms, and receiving reports daily from market centers of the country, sent by the state department of markets through the University of Wisconsin station, the department announces.

Cheap receiving instruments are being purchased by farmers, who for an initial outlay of from $35 to $50 receive the news of trade conditions, without waiting for delivery of newspapers which are often late in the remote sections of the state.

Possibilities of the development of this wireless telephone service are said by the department to be almost unlimited, and to afford exceptional opportunities for Wisconsin farmers to keep in touch with markets.

This use of the telephone is amplified each evening at 7:30 when the university band and other musical organizations give concerts to all farmers and others who wish to put on the receiver to their wireless phone. Distribution of the day's important news is contemplated so that it may be sent into the sections which are reached by train with difficulty.

The service was started on Monday of this week, and since that time hundreds of inquiries have been made to the department, concerning its plans for developing the telephone sending. Amateur stations have reported that the reports are received very clearly.

The department announces that it is investigating various receiving instruments and will soon decide on one that it can recommend to farmers. Cost of the phones will amount to approximately 50 cents a mile depending on the distance from Madison, it is said.

Connection can be made with a wire fence, or a single wire aerial and the reports received without further expense or bother by the farmers. The University of Wisconsin is co-operating with the department of markets in sending the reports and is doing extensive research with the wireless telephone to develop even more efficient instruments.

LOCAL DELEGATION TO LEAGUE MEETING LEAVES ON TUESDAY

Mayor A. A. Bentley, President of the League, Appoints La Crosse Delegation

The La Crosse delegation, consisting of Mayor Arthur A. Bentley, Alderman J. J. Verchota, W. J. Didesch, H. D. Newburg and W. P. Roelling, will leave Tuesday, October 11, to attend the state convention of the league of Wisconsin Municipalities at Janesville to be held on October 12, 13 and 14. The meeting is in reality a school for municipal officers. Real subjects of special interest to cities are studied and problems facing the different cities are discussed and remedies examined and analized as to their adaptability to the different sections of the state.

Among the questions to be studied this year are unemployment in the cities, home rule for cities, proposed legislation enlarging the powers of the school boards of the state, ways and means of making the league more effective and beneficial to the city officers, and many other subjects that are at the present time uppermost in the mind of municipal workers.

Mayor Bentley is president of the league and will present at the annual meeting a detailed report of the work of the past year, also by special request the mayor will explain the La Crosse plan of repaving streets, printing of real estate assessments, all year time assessors as worked out here.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' LIVESTOCK SHOW HELD IN OCTOBER

MADISON, Wis.—The annual show of Wisconsin boys' and girls' baby beeves, dairy calves, pigs and lambs, will be held at the stock pavilion of the college of agriculture here October 17 to 20 inclusive. Winning animals that have been shown by these boys and girls at county fairs and at the state fair will be brought together to compete for final honors at this junior livestock exposition.

MADISON MAN ARRESTED

MADISON, Wis.—Theodore Parratore, Madison, was arrested Saturday on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury and charged with violation of the prohibition laws. He was released on $1,000 bond.

GENERAL TIE-UP NOT AIM OF RAIL UNIONS DECLARES SHEPPARD

Plan to Inconvenience Public as Little as Possible Says Brotherhood Chief

DENIES REPORTS THAT STRIKE BALLOT IS MERELY A BLUFF

Course of Unions to be Decided at Monday Meetings

CHICAGO, Ill.—The definite assurance that a general tie-up of the country's transportation facilities is not contemplated by the railway unions now threatening to strike was given out Friday night by L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

"If we find it necessary to break with the railroads," said Mr. Sheppard, "our aim will be to inconvenience the public as little as possible. No one, I am sure, is considering a general walkout. I have privately given President Harding this assurance—I see no reason why I should withhold it from the public.

Not Cripple Roads

"Of course, to be effective, any strike would have to be something more serious that a mere declaration, and hardships undoubtedly would result. But transportation would not be crippled, and the large cities would not suffer greatly."

Announcement probably will be made Monday of the result of the strike vote of the conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Mr. Sheppard said he wished to dispel any impression that the strike ballot now being taken is a bluff—at least so far as his organization is concerned.

Monday to Tell Tale

"I, as president, have the power to veto a strike vote," he said, "but I shall follow the wishes of our men pretty closely. We are to hold a meeting of our general chairmen Monday evening. We shall determine our course at that time."

General chairmen of the other brotherhoods probably will hold similar conferences Monday. In all, more than 600 chairmen of the brotherhoods and the federated shop crafts will be in Chicago.

The shop crafts and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen already have announced their men favor a strike as a protest against the 12 per cent wage reduction of July 1.

To Judge Pennsy's Case

An announcement which has bearing on one of the grievances of the shopmen was made Friday by the United States railroad labor board. This indicated the board will hold a hearing within ten days to determine whether the Pennsylvania railway has violated the Esch-Cummins law in ignoring an order of the labor board to hold an election that would give unions opportunity to be chosen as representatives of the road's employes in all matters of dispute.

At the same time there was indication that there has not been a definite break of relations between the labor board and the Pennsylvania. This was evidenced by the road's petition asking a reduction in wages of dining car stewards, and by decisions upholding the carrier in other cases. The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes had asked reinstatement of three employes discharged by the Pennsylvania and lost pay for two others suspended. The application was denied.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES SHOW DECLINE DURING SEPTEMBER SAYS U. S.

WASHINGTON.—Retail food prices during September were found by the labor department Saturday to have declined in all but two of 14 cities in which it conducts investigation. Increases amounted to two per cent in Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

In the average city, retail prices were found on September 15 to be about 25 per cent less than one year previously but were still between 33 and 36 per cent above the 1913 level.

RAIN CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF 4TH GAME

Championship Battle Put Over to Sunday; Postponement Favors the Yankees

BABE RUTH OUT OF THE GAME SATURDAY WITH A SORE ARM

Became Infected after Injury While Home Run King Slid for a Base

POLO GROUNDS, New York.—Rain caused the postponement Saturday of the fourth game of the world's series between the Giants and the Yankees. It was raining hard at two o'clock, when the umpires came upon the field and Umpire Chill announced that the game was postponed until Sunday.

Postponement was of material benefit the Yankees because it had been previously announced that Babe Ruth would be unable to play on account of an infected arm. The Yankees will be the home club Sunday. There were about twenty thousand people on hand when the game was called.

POLO GROUNDS NEW YORK.—By The Associated Press.—Babe Ruth was among the missing when the Yankees gathered at their club-house to make ready for their battle with the Giants in the fourth engagement of the world's series. The home run king was up all night with an abscess on his arm which his physician had lanced. His doctor ordered him not to play Saturday, and there was some question whether he would appear again in the series.

"I have not heard anything about Ruth's condition," said Manager Huggins of the Yankees, at noon, "but if he is in any condition to play I know he would make the effort."

Ruth Needs Rest

Ruth's elbow became infected while sliding and a muscle in his left leg, which he tore over a week ago, causes him to limp painfully when walking. His doctor thinks a day or two of rest will unable the slugger to get back into the game.

Rain Threatens

Overhanging clouds that filled the sky at noon threatened constantly to wash the game clear off the schedule. Postponement would be a blessing to the Yankees, as it would enable Ruth to make a recovery sufficient to bring him back in the lineup and also give Carl Mays another day's rest.

Giants say they are determined to complete the massacre of the Yankees—Ruth or no Ruth.

"We have started," chirped Frankie Frisch, the Giants' third sacker, "and all the boys feel they can run the series off in a hurry."

Douglas Ready to Go

"Shufflin" Phil Douglas, with his mean breaking spit-ball, said he was "just rarin' to go." Douglas thinks he has learned all the batting weaknesses of the Yanks and says he will make them jump through the hoop if McGraw calls upon him.

"Just one of those defeats that come to every club," remarked Mike McNally, who guards the Yankees' third base, talking of the spill the American leaguers took Friday.

No Dirges Necessary

"Cleveland beat us 16 to 1 one day last July but we hopped them the next day to the tune of 12 to 2. Don't sing any dirges over this club for the Yanks react quickly from defeat."

There was a large crowd on hand when the Yankees in their home uniforms came upon the field for batting practice.

DESCENDANT OF MRS. LEARY'S COW JOINS IN CHICAGO PAGEANT

CHICAGO, Ill.—Despite the decision of learned investigators that Mrs. O'Leary's cow did not kick over the lantern and start the Chicago fire fifty years ago, because Mrs. O'Leary was sick in bed with a sore foot on the date of that historic event, Chicagoans Saturday insisted on giving the acrobatic bovine a premier position in the semi-centennial celebration of the conflagration. An alleged great-great grand daughter of the original O'Leary cow and a descendant of the genuine kerosene lantern play an important part in a fire-week pageant in Grant park.

OHIO OIL COMPANY BOOSTS THE PRICE

FINDLAY, Ohio.—The Ohio Oil company, one of the largest distributing companies in the United States, Saturday announced a further advance of 25 cents in the price of all Central west grades of crude oil as well as 15 to 20c advance in the price of Wyoming oils.

SABBATH DAY SERVICES IN THE CHURCHES OF LA CROSSE

Go To Church

TOMORROW

LA CROSSE VALLEY MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

First meeting of the season will be held Monday, October 10th, at the Y. M. C. A. building at 2 p. m. All ministers of La Crosse and the surrounding territory are cordially invited to attend. Election of officers.

E. C. DIXON, President.
O. STOCKMEIER, Secretary.

PRESBYTERIAN

First Presbyterian Church, Sixth and King streets, Claude B. Shaver, Minister.

Morning worship at 10:55 offers a theme which every individual appreciates at some time in life — "Christ's Cure for Despondency." It was applied to a group of discouraged fishermen, long ago in literal ministration; but its broader helpfulness comes in the deeper spiritual interpretations.

Evening worship at 7:00 will be under auspices of the Men's Fellowship League of the Church. While we call it "Men's Night" it is open to the ladies, as well. Mr. R. H. Kinney, the new general Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. will be the speaker. His subject, based upon years of wide observation in strategic places among American cities is "The Man and His Church." Special musical numbers will be rendered by our Fellowship Double Quartette and by the Men's Chorus.

Bible Schools, with qualified teachers for all grades, open at 9:15 a. m. in the church, where Mr. F. H. Scofield conducts a special post-graduate study class for students of the city. Grace Chapel opens at 2:30 p. m.

Needlecraft Club will be entertained by Mesdames C. V. Johnson and A. E. Daniell, at the home of the latter 1319 State St., on Wednesday afternoon. Ladies' Society will be the guest of Mrs. Fred Leithold, 214 N. Ninth St. on Thursday afternoon. Important business concerning the Bazaar will be in order. The Women's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. C. J. Sheer, 322 South Twentieth on Friday afternoon at three; Lesson: "Korea," Mrs. D. O. Crane; Items, Mrs. E. Cronon; Devotional, Mrs. C. C. Fletcher; Music, Mrs. C. R. Shaver.

Our Wednesday Night meeting is at 7:30 p. m. In the absence of the pastor, at supper, it will be led by Mr. F. H. Seefield, who will present a character study of "Esther."

AFRICAN BIG GAME HUNTER OVERTURNS JUNGLE TRADITIONS

Carl Akeley, After Perilous Escapades, Relates Things About Wild Animals

The old saying about experience being expensive instructor was never more applicable than the case of Carl Akeley, noted hunter of the past ten years in the heart of African jungles, and although he is generally recognized as the greatest hunter of them all, yet his hair breadth escapes with the wild animals have taught him above all else, that you can never quite understand the ways of the wild. You may think you do, but if is one place where the unexpected is liable to happen, that place is right down in the heart of Africa.

Mr. Akeley, while he hasn't exactly learned just what to do in every emergency, has learned some clear-cut rules on what not to do, and these might be briefly epitomized as follows:

Don't fool with the elephant unless you mean business. He is the shrewdest, craftiest and most vindictive animal of the jungles.

Don't get chummy with the leopard unless you have a body-guard. He is bloodthirsty, fearless, will pick a quarrel with you on slightest provocation, and will fight until the last breath.

Don't waste your time on the ostrich, he's the craftiest old bird of all, in spite of the commonly accepted slander about burying his head in time of danger. As a matter of fact he buries everything except his snaky head and will worry you along for days, just out of range.

Don't let the "rhino" bother you. He makes the most noise, kicks up the most dust, but is really the clown of the jungle. If he [illegible] simply step aside and let him pass. In nine cases out of ten he'll accept.

Don't forget the African buffalo should be given a wide berth. He's a bad actor, easily infuriated and isn't at all satisfied with an ordinary conventional killing. Lots of folks have been fooled by the African buffalo and didn't live to tell the story.

If you want a real fight, however take the lion. He's the squarest shot of the jungle. Despite his thunderous roar he's a pacifist at heart, but will put up a battle royal when patience ceases to be a virtue.

Mr. Akeley, who will lecture here in the Norman Lecture Course will show the finest "movies" of game hunting ever made. He has been connected with the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, for the past fifteen years.

FAVILLE CHAIRMAN OF CONGREGATIONAL STATE CONFERENCE

Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Rowlison, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holcomb, C. N. Harrington, Mrs. Maude Batcheller and Mrs. O. J. Oyen have returned from Eau Claire, where they attended the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Congregational conference. Two hundred and fifty delegates were in attendance.

L. Curtis Talmadge, state superintendent, handed in his resignation at this meeting. Rev. Theodore R. Faville of Oshkosh, former resident of La Crosse, was elected chairman of the board of directors, succeeding Rev. Mr. Rowlison. G. W. Mead of Wisconsin Rapids was chosen moderator.

Among the prominent speakers at the conference were Rev. W. E. English of Chicago, Prof. O. T. Helming, Ambrose Vernon of Carlton college, Wortham M. Tippy of New York, social service secretary of the national federation of churches; Rev. Reed Taft Bayne of Superior; Dr. Charles E. Burton of New York, and W. E. Rowell of Hinsdale, Ill.

CHARLES GRANVILLE WILL SING HERE

CHARLES GRANVILLE

Charles Norman Granville, the distinguished American baritone, who will appear on the Music Study club course this winter is a splendid example of what grit and application will accomplish. Inspired with the ambition to sing he resigned as second baritone of the Boston Lyric Opera company and arrived in New York with scarcely any assets other than a good voice, youth and a determination to succeed.

After arranging for daily lessons with Agramonte, a celebrated teacher, he purchased a few scores of operas and oratorios and with the aid of a pitch-pipe, being too poor to indulge in the luxury of a piano, he began his first study of repertoire. After several years of assiduous study he was heard by the great baritone Victor Maurel who enthusiastically accepted him as a student. He remained with Maurel for four years the greater part of the time having daily lessons and the last two years acting as first assistant to the teacher.

His first appearance in recital at Aeolian hall was a brilliant success upon which occassion the press was consistent in its praise of his vocal interpretative ability. Musical America in reviewing his work said "Mr. Granville through his beautiful voice, artistic singing and faultless enunciation has placed himself among the foremost American baritones."

Poor dressmakers have a ripping time.

BARBERS TO BE EXAMINED HERE NEXT THURSDAY

Examination for barbers will be held at 122 South Third street, La Crosse, on Thursday, October 20th. All journeymen barbers in the vicinity of La Crosse are required to take this examination as the law provides that the state board of health may refuse to renew a journeyman's license to any journeyman who does not take an examination without sufficient excuse. If Work Bores You

DOES your job bore you? Does it become monotonous? If so, there are plenty of peculiar and fascinating occupations in the world, from which you can take your choice.

One job that never gets dull is held by J. Clark, of the government's biological survey. Clark is champion cougar hunter of North America, a delightful occupation that has no rival unless it be leading a lion with a rope in a circus parade.

Cougars have been killing many sheep in British Columbia. So the authorities there send for Clark. He goes about the work in a matter-of-fact way like a man chasing a fly with a swatter.

But if the truth were known, Clark's work probably bores him. Thrills cease to be thrills when they are everyday occurrences.

* * * *

Dr. Johannes Schmidt, Danish scientist, has one of the most peculiar jobs. He is the world's greatest expert on migrations of the eel.

It was Schmidt who made the "startling discovery" that all eels about this time of year go, or want to go, to a depth of 500 fathoms off the coast of the Virgin Islands, West Indies. There they spawn and die.

Schmidt now is on his way for another study of eels in American waters. Is his work thrilling? It's certainly unique.

Hatfield and others are professional rainmakers. Some men devote their lives to catching rats. The state of Oregon has a professional sea-lion killer.

* * * *

Reflecting on these peculiar occupations, you wonder: What is it that makes one man's interest center in cougars, another's in eels, rainmaking, rats or some exceptional form of skill such as beating gold-leaf, microscopic writing or studying the energy locked up in an atom?

Carry your train of thought on into the common occupations. Why does one maturing boy lose interest in everything except laying bricks, while another sidetracks everything else in life to concentrate on running a lathe, repairing watches, selling goods, sawing and nailing boards or keeping books?

The job you eventually settle on is the one you were intended to do. A supreme intelligence has so decreed—and always keeps a fine balance, just enough becoming farmers, carpenters, salesmen, mechanics or clerks to make the civilization-machine run smoothly.

We are here on earth for a definite purpose, each of us, though we are puppets with a supreme intelligence pulling the strings.

Insect Menace

IN 1892 some grey beetles, about a quarter of an inch long, crossed the Rio Grande river, from Mexico. They landed near Brownsville, Texas. Agricultural scientists announced, with considerable alarm, that the picudo or Mexican boll weevil had invaded the United States. The boll weevils started to conquer the cotton belt, pushing their lines forward fifty miles a year. In 1902 they damaged the cotton crop to the extent of $10,000,000. That caused alarm. This year the destruction by boll weevils is $400,000,000.

The boll weevil has made its progress against the best resistance that civilized man could make. Opposed at every corner by the ablest scientific brains, it has moved ahead and multiplied as if nothing were in its path. That gives you an idea if the vitality of insect life. The boll weevil survives and multiplies because of the excellent care it gives its young. Mother weevil carefully drills a hole in a cotton boll, deposits her eggs, then skillfully seals the opening. That is a piece of cunning, implanted in her brain by shrewd Mother Nature who knew that the boll weevil would have hard battles to fight and that its eggs must be hidden.

Cotton rises in price, partly due to destruction of the crop by the boll weevil. The higher price is badly needed by many planters and gives them much satisfaction. But when you figure the progress made by the boll weevil since its arrival twenty-nine years ago, you wonder how many years, at that rate, it may be before cotton will be in danger of complete extinction from the list of American crops. If scientists succeed in stamping out the boll weevil, it probably will be by setting loose another insect or a bird that is its natural enemy.

As time goes on, man will realize that insects are his greatest enemies. They always have been, but we are not sufficiently rested from the job of clearing the earth of wild animals, to comprehend the menace of insect life. Flies, mosquitoes, moths and boll weevils are bad enough. But nature has, in readiness to keep our fighting spirit alive, to make us fight for existence, countless millions of kinds of insects. We have seen what the boll weevil can do. It is only one of 25,000 different kinds of beetles.

Other Factors

SAYS a reader, writing to the "public debate" column of a Chicago paper:

Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 5.—Charles Adkins and three grown members of his family made the trip from here to Sarasota, Fla., in six days at a total cost of $17 for gasoline and oil and one small repair. The total cost per passenger was $4.25. They slept every night in their car-tent attachment. It requires four days by train service to same point if stops are made to sleep nights. This seems to settle the transportation problem. The railways charge $40.

Give us hard roads in all directions and trucks and touring cars will settle all railway strikes and advances in passenger and freight rates. F. P. R.

But it is not so simple. Nobody can "give us" hard roads in every direction. Hard roads have to be purchased, and they cost a lot of money. It's the same sort of money that the railroads have invested in their rights of way, and it serves the same purpose. The interest charges on it are the same, sum for sum. If the cost of construction of the automobile right-of-way doesn't appear so much a factor in travel figured on the immediate cost of a trip, it must not be forgotten that the cost of the road is in the tax bill, and must be paid.

Probably the railroads are getting too much for their services—more than the traffic will bear. But the solution is not to build at government expense long-haul hard highways to put them out of business. It would be cheaper to spend the money to buy the railroads.

We need the railroads for the long hauls, the hard roads for the short rural and inter-city traffic. We aren't going to get anywhere but into trouble by trying to work out the right answer with less than all of the factors considered.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

"We need food, clothing and money. People are starving." This is the message received this morning by Mayor John Dengler from the mayor of Black River Falls. Mayor Dengler immediately appointed a relief committee and at 1:15 a carload of provisions and clothing left for the scene of yesterday's flood disaster. The mayor, A. R. Olson and F. H. Burgess were in charge of the train.

The formal opening of the new Lennon Millinery store at 410 Main street, took place this morning. Miss A. Lennon, the owner, purchased the business from the J. T. Farlan Millinery company July 11 and since then the store has been thoroughly remodeled. It occupies two floors, the first being devoted to millinery, ladies' furnishing, etc., and the second is devoted to dressmaking parlors, rest-rooms and stockroom.

The La Crosse Tribune will next week give the people of La Crosse and vicinity their first aviation meet. The Tribune closed a contract today with the Curtiss Exhibition company for the bringing to this city of two great flying machines and aviators on the afternoon of October 12. The exhibition will take place at the fair grounds. One of the aviators coming is Glen Curtiss the inventor and birdman, and the other Hugh Robinson, most talked-of aviator in the world today.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Lieut. Carl Jungen of La Crosse, who was on the battleship Maine when it was blown up in Havana harbor, has been promoted to the position of lieutenant commander in the United States navy.

The state bureau of labor has begun an investigation of the servant girl, factory and shop girl problem with the purpose of furnishing social students and legislators with material for reforms and corrections of existing evils. The investigation will be made thoroughly, particularly in La Crosse, Oshkosh and Milwaukee where girls are largely employed.

A new cement walk is being laid in front of the Rose jewelry store.

The vacant house at the corner of St. Paul and Berlin streets has been sold to Mr. Sperbeck, Sr., who will have it torn down and the lumber taken to his farm to be used for building. As there has hitherto been a platform for a yard there will now be a hole some ten feet deep which comes up to the walk and it will be necessary to put up a railing.

N. Y. Young, cashier at the Burlington freight office in South La Crosse, has been promoted to traveling auditor for the Northern division of the road. His offices hereafter will be on the second floor of the passenger depot.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

John Beck of the north side, has just negotiated the transfer of the Central House, located on Onalaska Avenue for sixty acres of land near Arcadia. The Central House was built when the Milwaukee road located shops at Grand Crossing. It had a big patronage for some time until the Goddard, Burlington, Union House and St. George hotels located there.

There are bright prospects that a keg factory will be located on the north side. Mr. Hirshheimer, the owner will probably build it on Indian Hill. The north side seems to be favored in the way of getting factories, owing to the fact that the land in South La Crosse is held at such a high price that it sends manufacturers to the north side where prices are more reasonable.

The La Crosse Music company sold a Schubert piano this week to the Sisters of St. Francis. It was shipped to the Franciscan branch of their order at Hadson.

Mr. Matt Winkerchin, who has a handsome place east of Grand Crossing, has gone to Minnesota to purchase cows. He intends to start a first class dairy.

The mission held all this week at St. James church by the Dominican Fathers, Rev. Splinter and Rev. Daly, was well attended. Mass has been celebrated at five o'clock each morning for the convenience of those who must be at their place of business by seven o'clock.

AN ACT OF PROVIDENCE

BY MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

"Mercy! How I hate sewing!" Elinor said peevishly as her thread snarled for the third time in a minute.

"But—not quite as much as you love new frocks—pretty ones," Doris answered, adding with a smile, "Never mind the knots—it's a sure sign wh n your thread ties up so you'll be married and happy before what you are sewing on wears out."

"If I believed that—" Elinor began with a lurking smile. "But of course it's nonsense—superstitions all are."

"I'm not so sure," Doris said tensingly. "Science is finding out that a heap of superstitions so called, are surface indications of important facts."

"How ridiculous!" from Elinor. Doris went on reflectively: "Suppose something inside you powerful enough to captivate a big man was also powerful enough to make your thread electric—you know almost everything goes back now to electricity—"

"I don't know any such thing—and I wish you wouldn't parade the fact that you do. You make my headache worse—and it's bad enough at best. Unless I get help somehow, this ruffishly thing," touching her work scornfully, "will never get done in time—nor be fit to look at."

"Stepmamma will help if you ask her nicely," Doris bantered.

Elinor sprang up, stamping her foot, angry tears flooding her cheeks. "You know I won't ask her—I can't," she sobbed. "She ought to do it without asking—taking my mother's place. And you, my own cousin, ought to help."

"Like heaven, we help those who help themselves," Doris returned.

Elinor flung herself across the bed, crying hard. But at the sound of her name, spoken in a strong, young voice below stairs, the tears ceased magically—after some little business with the powder-puff, she tripped away, a pattern of April sunshine.

"If I knew enough, I'd write a profound thesis on 'The Alternative Value of a Timely Beau,'" Doris commented philosophically: "But those who need it would neither read it, nor heed it. Dick Brownley least of all. He thinks Miss Elinor came straight from heaven by air-express. Because, forsooth, she has baby-curls, a beautiful baby-stare, dances like a sunbeam, and sings like a seraph. Strictly ornamental—fine for keeping in cotton wool—or under a glass case, but apt to get chipped in this rough-and-tumble world. However, it is none of my funeral. I'm no feminine knight-errant yearning to save men from the desires of their own hearts."

Elinor rushed back, crying: "Put on your hat, Do',—Dick wants us to go motoring—you know I can't unless you will. Thanks to a stepmother. We're to be gone all day—lunch at some swagger country club, and dine at another. She—stepmother, you know has planned to teach me canning this afternoon. Fancy spending it in the kitchen—with such weather outside."

"You might do worse. I'd prefer it to playing gooseberry," Doris said, her eyes speculative. "Oh! You won't do that—Dick to pick up another man—over the Travers' place," Elinor said cravingly: "Do come, old dear? Everything may depend on it."

In spite of better judgment, Doris went. She was really sorry for Elinor, a badly spoiled child, suddenly brought under a curb, strict if kindly. Naturally she was unhappy. Marriage was a way out—it might also be a way into worse and more lasting unhappiness. Dick Brownley was as spoiled as Elinor, as headstrong, and extravagant. He would make ducks and drakes of a decent inheritance if unchecked. Elinor would not check him. But, said Doris to herself, smiling whimsically: "What a good time they will have spending everything together."

The man picked up should have warned Doris—he was so deep-died a cleric, pallid almost to anemia and solemn as an owl. He looked, indeed, much like the bird of wisdom, peering through huge horn-rimmed glasses set astride a beaky nose. Entertaining him was easy—it involved no more than playing audience. But his droning answered to mask the amorous dialogue in full blast on the front seat. Luncheon at the Country club reduced it to the terms of blushes, giggles and heads touching as they bent together over the menu. Still Doris was obtuse—it was, she thought, only the rebound. Elinor had been held at home sewing for the two days past. Naturally, accumulated affection broke out now.

But presently as they sped past a roadside stone Doris knew that they were in another state. Then she became uneasy—this neighbor state was a Gretna Green for impatient couples in that they had quitted. She touched Dick's shoulder, asking: "Is this an elopement—or what?"

"Not yet, but soon," he answered with a grin. "We'll see Rigby in about ten minutes."

"I say no!," Doris retorted.

"You don't mean you'll try to preach!" Dick demanded, flushing deeply.

"I won't see Elinor perjure herself," from Doris. "She is not eighteen—so can't marry without her father's consent."

"She will, all same," Dick said impudently. "For, if you try to block the game, right here is where you get off. We've no use for trouble-makers. Unless you promise to be good, out you go, right here and now——"

"Oh, Dick!" Elinor protested, hiding her face. "You—you mustn't——"

"But I will," from Dick grimly, checking the car. Doris gave him a cutting smile.

"I wonder you don't throw me out," she said. "But that might make trouble later."

"Elinor dear, come with me."

"—I—know I ought to—but—but I can't," Elinor wailed. The car shot ahead, the predestined parson waving his hat deferentially to Doris. She looked about her. Thirty miles from home, a stranger, with just a bit of change in her bag. The case seemed desperate, but she rose to it gallantly. Half a mile off she saw a handsome house—a car was turning in to it—she hailed it, saying breathlessly, "Please take me—in there. It is important—I will tell you why later."

Later by some two minutes she stood before a telephone, which the wondering lady of the house had cheerfully put at her service. She got her number almost at once—held a brief conversation, at the close of which she sat down weakly, covered her face with both hands, and let tears of relief flow unchecked between her fingers.

The license clerk looked the applicants over compassionately. Elinor was so appealing pretty, so trustful, evidently so much afraid. He cleared his throat, saying with kindly gruffness to Dick: "Too late by just seven minutes, young man. I've just had telephone orders from your girl's father—a mighty fine man, Major Lane—to refuse you a license, as she is under age, and he's dead against your having her—and to detain her until he can come for her——"

"I'd like to see you detain her," Dick burst out hotly. The clerk looked at him steadily. "Young man, there's a law against kidnapping. My wife will be here in a jiffy to take care of the young lady until the major comes——" Here Dick sprang forward, his face demoniac, making to strike the older man. Something stayed him—Elinor, soft and clinging.

Swinging hard upon his arm, she cried clearly to the official: "Thank you, sir—and God—and Doris—for saving me!" and promptly sank in a dead faint!"

The thwarted elopement turned out to be a providence. Major Lane and his girl found each other over again. Dick effaced himself: best of all, not a word got abroad. As for Doris, the man she appealed to took her home joyously. And before Christmas they were married—to live happy ever after, let us hope.

WISCONSIN NORMAL SCHOOLS ASK FOR INCREASED STAFF

MADISON, Wis.—The state board of education meets on Thursday of next week to consider normal school requests for additional teachers. An increase of over 1,000 in attendance at the nine institutions has resulted in requests for 34 new instructors.

It is expected that presidents of the normal schools will be asked to explain the instructional organization within their institutions, before additional teachers are allowed. The board plans to investigate the entire teaching situation within the institutions, it is said.

An appropriation of $50,000 by the legislature is available for additional teachers.

GRANT VETS ONE CENT RATE TO CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY.—Certificates entitling holders to purchase a round trip ticket from his home to Kansas City to attend the national convention of the American Legion, Oct. 31 to Nov. 2, will be distributed to American Legion posts throughout the country, it was announced here on Thursday at the convention headquarters. This system has been adopted to prevent use of the 1 cent fare privilege by persons not entitled to it.

STUDY HELPS IN YOUR OWN NEWSPAPER

ALL SORTS OF THINGS

In the lower grades of school, where we know exactly what the next day's lesson is to be, it is easy to know exactly what to study. We study facts that are called "specific" rather than "general."

The further along in school one gets, the less true this is. In college, as the sources of knowledge that become more and more extensive, the lessons get more and more indefinite.

Then, when school is over, a man is forced to rely almost altogether on his general knowledge. Dad may have no idea what problems are going to confront him in the office tomorrow. He can't study in the evening to be able to answer the questions that some man is going to ask him the next day. No! He doesn't know the questions. He must depend on his knowledge of things in general.

One reason that the fellow who gets lower marks in his studies sometimes goes ahead of the fellow who gets better grades, after both are out of school, is that the fellow with lower marks, while he may have learned less about certain particular lessons, learns more about things in general.

There is no better textbook of things in general than the daily newspaper. Form the habit of reading the newspaper as soon as you can. You will learn about all sorts of things, and this learning will be exactly what you need. For what is a man's expedience after his school days are over, if it isn't with all sorts of things?

QUARTER-BACK TIPS

Written especially for this newspaper by "Chuck" Palmer Half-back, Northwestern University, 1921.

So that his men will be sure to understand thoroughly, the quarter-back should turn about and face the backfield when giving his signals. Before the signals are given he should look carefully over the opponent's line and back-field to find holes, and then call plays by which his men can go through these openings.

On the defense the quarter-back usually plays back farther than any other man. In going to his position he should keep his head turned toward the opponent's line, so he will surely see any tricks before they result disastrously. While in his backfield position the main thing for him to do is watch for forward passes and find the weaknesses of the opposing team. If he sees a fake play in the wind, he should call out and warn his teammates.

In case an opponent slips around his teammates and starts for the goal, the quarter-back will be the only man to stop the runner. In this position it is vitally necessary for him to keep cool and well under control.

When the quarter-back is receiving a punt, he should keep his eye on the ball and not on the opponents that are bearing down upon him. When he has received the ball, then is the time to look around.

ONE REEL YARNS

CHIEF BIG GUN'S VISIT

"I'm depending on you to 'run the ranch,' Phil," his mother said. "We'll be home before dark."

"As though I'd be afraid if you weren't," Phil laughed.

"Remember, you've been in Oklahoma only a month," his father smiled. "Don't be too sure of yourself. Look after Sister." The auto started and with a wave Dad and Mother were gone in a cloud of dust.

The day passed quickly for Phil and Sister. There was much to be done and both were kept busy. After washing the supper dishes the two sat on the porch to watch for their parents.

"Some one's coming," announced Sister, pointing down the road.

"But it's not an automobile," said Phil, straining his eyes. "It's a man on a horse."

"What a funny looking thing on his head," added Sister. "And, Phil!" she screamed. "It's an Indian!"

Phil trembled. He knew all about Indians. He had read loads of stories about them. "Come on in the house, Sister," he ordered. "We'll lock all the doors and windows and keep real quiet. Maybe he'll ride past."

But the Indian did not. He rode up to the porch, dismounted, and, without even knocking, tried the door. Sister grabbed Phil's arm and both breathed hard. Again the Indian tried the door. Then he went around to the back door and pounded hard. "Why did we ever come to Oklahoma?" sobbed Sister softly.

The Indian, a big, scowling fellow, returned to the front door. He called out something in a deep, guttural voice. "I expect he's threatening to burn the house down!" Phil whispered.

At last the red man rode away. For an hour after Phil and Sister crouched in the darkness, expecting to have him return any minute. Then they heard the automobile and they ran out.

"All alone?" called their father cheerfully. "We're late, but I knew we'd be, so when I met Chief Big Gun, an old friend of mine, in town he said he'd stop in here as he went by. Probably couldn't find the place. You didn't see him, did you?"

Parables of Safed the Sage

PARABLE OF THE BAD TEMPER

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON

HERE came unto me one who said, I have a Very Bad Temper.

And he said it with what he thought was humility, but it was as it had been a certain sort of pride.

And I said, Thou art a Narrow-Minded Man.

Then he was angry, and I knew that he was no Liar when he said that he had a Bad Temper.

And when he said More or Less, I silenced him, and I said, I believed thee when thou saidest that thou hadst a Bad Temper; I did not ask thee to make such a Display of it.

And he said, Thou has insulted me; for a Quick Temper is not the sign of a Narrow Mind, but the sign of a Warm and Generous Nature; for, if I am quick to be angry, I am quick also to get over it, and very ready to Make Amends.

Now we spake in the Garden, and I left him for a moment, and when I returned I had been in the Kitchen, and I brought back an Egg.

And I threw the Egg at the Back Fence, and it Broke and spattered the Fence.

And I said, Thou speakest of Making Amends. Gather up that Egg again, and clean off the Fence, and put the Egg back into the Shell, and set an Hen upon it, and make of it a Plymouth Rock Rooster. Then talk to me of making amends for thine outbursts of Temper.

For thou spatterest over all thy friends, and splashest them with thy fury, and then thou dost leave them to clean off thy rage and try to forget thine unreasonable words, and thou thinkest thou hast made amends.

And I said, The best way to make amends for a Bad Temper is to keep thy temper to thyself.

And he said, Verily, thou didst say of me that I had a Narrow Mind,, and I will take that from no man.

And I said, Thou wilt take it once again from me. Thou hast a Narrow Mind. He who hath a Mad Temper is a man who is capable of seeing but one aspect of a thing, and incapable of withholding his snap judgment until he may learn the whole truth.

And because he is both narrow-minded and childish, therefore doth he fly into a rage, as thou hast done, and heinously dost do. Flatter not thyself that this is the sign of a generous nature, for I have told thee already of what it is a sign.

And he was silent.

And I went and got out the Hose, and started to wash off the Egg from the Fence.

And he would not have it so, but caught the Nozzle from my hand and himself washed off the Egg from the fence. And he said—

Though I be not able to produce a Plymouth Rock Rooster from that Egg, yet hath it not been wholly wasted.

And I am inclined to think that he had Learned Something that was worth the price of an Egg.

IN THE MORNING PAPERS

A Summary of the News

NEW YORK.—Capt. A. B. Randall, of the steamship Hudson, was suspended from command of his ship by the United States line on a charge of not "using good judgment" when he failed to aid three men adrift off Fire Island.

LONDON.—A hint that Premier Lloyd George may yet be able to attend the conference on limitation of armaments was made in a semi-official statement to the press.

WASHINGTON.—A resolution directing the interstate comerce commission to order a 25 percent reduction in freight rates on grain, grain products, livestock, coal, hay and cotton, was introduced by Representative Dowell, republican, Iowa.

WASHINGTON—Practical completion of a majority report on permanent measures for the betterment of business was effected by the manufacturers' committee of the unemployment conference.

CHICAGO, Ill.—If a railroad strike is called it will not be one that will tie up the entire transportation system of the country, L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors announced.

PEKING.—A text of China's reply to proposals of the Japanese government concerning settlement of the Shantung controversy asserts Japan has advanced no plan for settlement which is fundamentally acceptable to the Chinese government and people.

DETROIT—Twenty-six mail pouches, three of which contained regular mail, were taken from a mail wagon by four men who held up the driver.

NEW YORK— The Mayflower compact, signed on the ship by those coming to America, was declared to be the 'bedrock on which rest American institutions" by Vice President Coolidge, in an address here.

GIANTS DETERMINED TO BOMBARD YANKEE PITCHING SELECTION

"Shufflin'" Phil Douglas Believed to be Choice of Manager McGraw Today

HARPER OR MAYS TO HURL FOR YANKEES IN FOURTH

Toney Perhaps to Get Another Chance Despite Bad Inning

NEW YORK.—The weather at 7 o'clock Saturday morning was cloudy with official forecasts predicting rain. Weatherman held out hope, however, that the rain, if it came, might be over in time for the fourth world's series game.

NEW YORK.—Their batting sights clear and set for sharpshooting, the New York Giants were determined Saturday to bombard the Yankee twirling selection and gain an even footing in the series. They hammered four Yankee pitchers for a world's series record of twenty years and won the third game, 13 to 5, after dropping the first two without a score.

Manager McGraw intimated he would send "Shufflin'" Bill Douglas, the spit-bailer, to the mound in an effort to hold the Yankee sluggers while his men march to their second victory. Phil hurled a great game in the opening contest against Mays, but the underhanded flinger was craftier.

Harry Harper, who makes up Huggins' port-sided mound staff, is most likely to oppose Phil and if the Hackensack hurler is in form the fourth game of the series may develop another pitchers' battle.

Dope Reversed

All the dope issued previous to the series by the so-called experts has materialized but it turned out they said Giants where they should have said Yankees, and vice versa. They predicted the Giants would show the greatest dash, speed and resourcefulness, while the Yankees would win their games by horsehide mauling. In the games the Yankees won by dash and resourcefulness and the third the Giants punched their way to triumph.

Huggins probably will not call on Shawkey, Quinn and Collins again in this series as the Giants got to them hard yesterday. If Harper comes through Saturday, he believes the series will be on ice for the Americans with Mays and Hoyt in reserve for the needed two games. If Harper fails Huggins will have to rely on his two aces for an "iron man" stunt.

Behind the bat Friday Snyder performed well for the Giants. He wielded the stick with precision, too, and he will be sent into the game again Saturday.

Suffering from an abscess on his arm as a result of his base stealing in the second game, Babe Ruth may be compelled to watch the fourth contest from the bench. "Chick" Fewster will take his place in event that Babe is unable to play.

Babe Wants Homer

"My greatest desire, right now," said the Babe, "is to crown my world's series play with a homer into the stands. I'd die easy if I could do it."

Friday's game as a result of the ineffective pitching of the Yankee twirlers, saw a number of world's series records smashed to Smithereens. Those eight hits in the seventh inning made one record, the eight runs another, and the twelve men who batted still another. Young's two hits in the inning, one a single, the other a triple, also made history. The time required to play the game, two hours and forty minutes, added a few lines to the record.

Twenty hits for one team in one game never were recorded before in a world's series. Burns gathered four of them, three singles and a triple. Frisch, besides drawing three free passes, hit safely twice; Young walked twice, then made a triple and single in the same inning. Emil Meusel collected a double and two singles, Snyder four singles and Jess Barnes two. Rawlings got two and Bancroft one. Kelly and Toney were the only Giants who failed to connect at least once.

Burns' Run Feature

Burns' great run and capture of Quinn's drive toward the center bleacher wall will go down in baseball history as one of the greatest plays of the game. It will be mentioned along with Ward's leaping one-handed catch of Rawlings' liner toward right in the second which enabled the Yankee keystone sacker to double Emil Meusel off first and pull Shawkey out of a deep, dark hole.

Toney's showing for the Giants was disappointing but Big Fred had a tough break and probably will get another chance. Jess Barnes, who relieved him, pitched a masterful game and as a result McGraw believes he has the series won.

"Remember how Douglas pitched in the first game and how Nehf worked in the second and then count Barnes," said McGraw. "I expect to win with all three of them again and I believe Toney is good despite that third inning."

Big Crowd Expected

Saturday being a half-holiday for business people in New York a record crowd is expected to pack the Polo grounds.

The probable lineup for Saturday follows:

Giants—Burns, cf; Bancroft, ss; Frisch, 3b; Young, rf; Kelly, 1b; E. Meusel, lf; Rawlings, 2b; Snyder, c; Douglas, p.

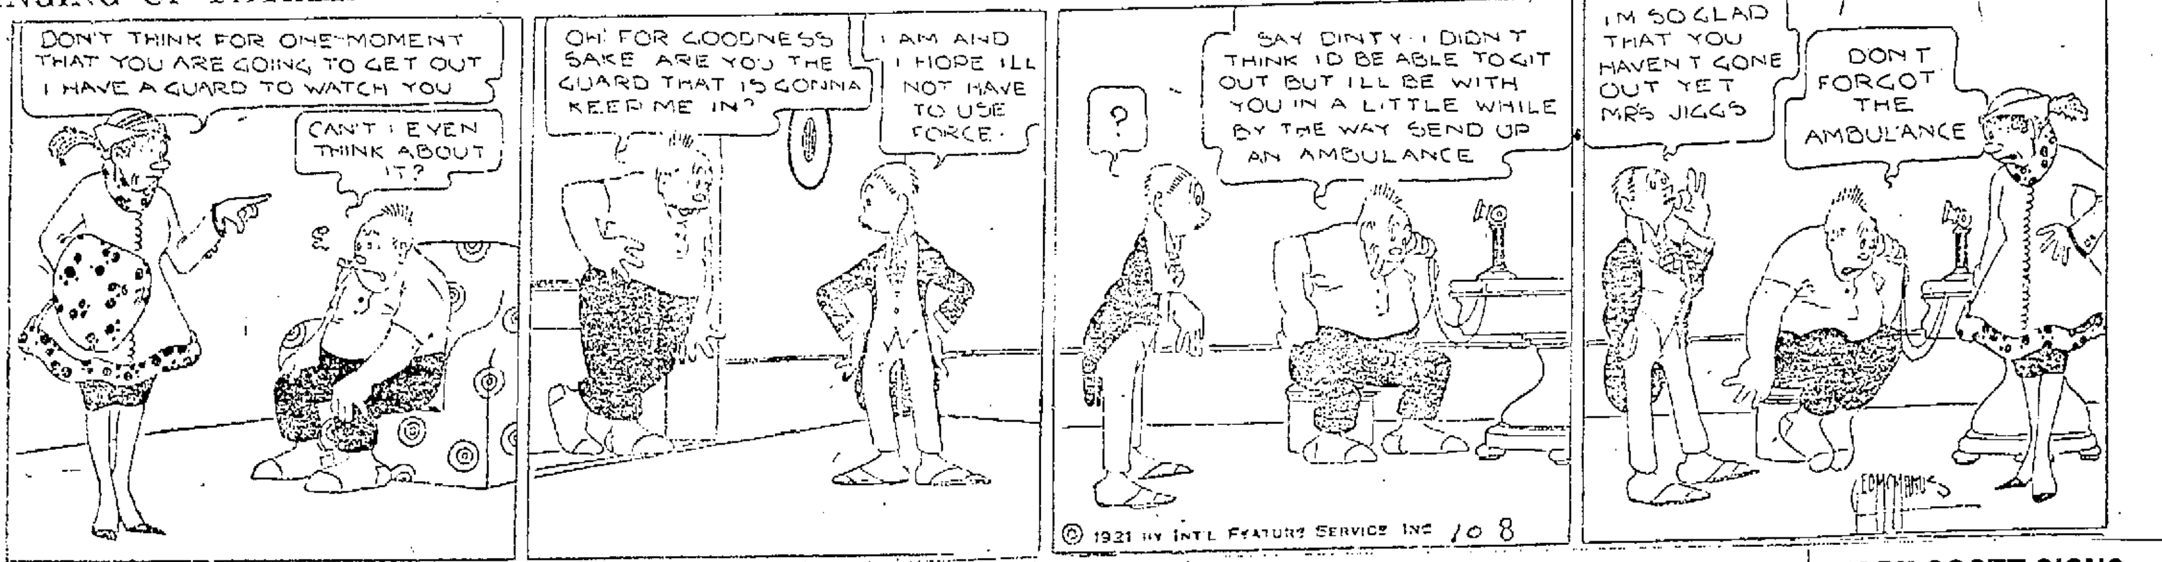

Yankees—Miller, cf; Peck, ss; Ruth or Fewster, lf; R. Meusel, rf; Pipp, 1b; Ward, 2b; McNally, 3b; Schang, c; Harper, or Mays, p.

Umpires—Chill at plate, Rigler at first, Moriarity at second, Quigley at third.

TWO WESTERN CONFERENCE BATTLES SATURDAY AFFECT BIG 10 CHAMPIONSHIP RACE

Minnesota Meets Northwestern While Purdue Battles at Stagg Field; Indiana Invades the East to Tackle Harvard

CHICAGO, Ill.—Western conference football elevens Saturday were ready for several important contests, two of which affected the championship race while others were expected to reveal much of the potential titular possibilities of elevens which do not start their conference games until next week.

Minnesota received its first test of the season with Northwestern at Minneapolis, the Gophers being the favorites and the interest centering primarily on whether they would be able to roll up as large a score against Northwestern as Chicago did last week when the Maroons were winners, 41 to 0.

Purdue, defeated last week by Wabash, an outsider, met Chicago at Stagg field here and again the interest primarily was whether Chicago would continue its promises of offensive strength by puncturing the Boilermakers' defense in a consistent manner.

The game was the last for the Maroons before going east to meet Princeton next Saturday being an open date in Chicago's schedule.

Iowa, a team of unproven but suspected strength was ready at Iowa City, Iowa, for Notre Dame, always one of the west's leading teams, although not a conference eleven.

Indiana Goes East

Indiana journeyed out of the middle west into the east to try its strength against Harvard in the first of the east-west intersectional games of the season.

Illinois, reported to be shot to pieces through the loss of many veterans, received its first test of the season in the game with South Dakota university at Urbana, the contest being closely watched by football observers as a means of determining just how much the Illini have been weakened by the absence of several of last year's stars.

Other games found Wisconsin facing South Dakota at Madison, Wis., and Michigan battling Case at Ann Arbor. In each case the conference eleven was expected to be an easy winner but the games drew considerable attention because Michigan and Wisconsin have been picked by many as two of the strongest teams in the conference this year.

Ohio State expected an easy time with Oberlin at Columbus.

LATHROP FEATURES IN BALL TOURNEY HELD AT HILLSBORO

Wins Three Games for Elroy in Single Day of Grand Ball Tournament

What is believed to be a record established by a pitcher in this section is that of Lathrop, of the Beloit Fairies, pitching for Elroy in the grand tournament at Hillsboro this week when he won three successive games in a single day after having pitched one game in the previous day.

Richland Center, Reedsburg and Cashton were left in the running after the dust of the first day's playing had settled and it took no one less than Lathrop to eliminate them in three successive games on the final day of the tournament.

Four men of the Beloit Fairies were employed by the Elroy team including Allison, centerfield, Styles, shortstop Halloway, second base and Lathrop, pitcher, Chas. Weigent occupied third for Elroy. Two officials from the American Association directed the tournament with the result that but two arguments of minor importance occurred during entire tournament.

The results of the games were as follows: Cashton, 5, Viola 0; Reedsburg 4, Sparta 2; Richland Center 3, Elroy 3: (Called on account of darkness.) Second day: Elroy 13, Richland Center 1; Elroy 5; Reedsburg 0; Elroy 8; Cashton 6.

The following were the pitchers for the various teams: Cashton, Shotten; Viola, Benn; Reedsburg, Dodge; Sparta, Sims; Richland Center, Doherty; Elroy, Lathrop. Information was learned on the return of Weigent, lines of communication to Hillsboro being out of order.

NORMAL GRIDDERS CLASH WITH MINERS AT PLATTEVILLE

Coach Keeler and Twenty Men Make Trip Friday to Battle Southerners

Coach Keeler, with his normal school football squad, left Friday noon at 12:35 for Platteville, where they met the normal school team of that city this afternoon. About twenty men, a larger number than is usually carried made the trip.

The team will probably line up as follows for the beginning of the game. Wittek and Vondrashek, ends; Gerber and Lewis, tackles; Capt Kevin and Jonas, guards; Royal, center; McCormick, quarterback; Sezyzerbocki and Moran, halfbacks and Loughrea, fullback. Other men who made the trip are Webber and Warne, line men; Stoneman, Dean, Murphy, Gautch, Reiss, and Filonowicz ends and backfield material.

Main street was somewhat amazed by the unexpected appearance of nearly 600 normal school students who paraded during the noon hour. One of the largest turnouts in the history of the school accompanied the team to the train, singing the school songs and yelling. Fifth hour classes were excused so that the students might have time to go to the depot and not miss their lunch.

WORLD SERIES NOW MERE SOCIETY EVENT

POLO GROUNDS, New York.—The world series baseball fan today became extinct.

That raving maniac who was wont to wait in line all night and then tear his hair and swallow his cigar in a moment of excitement, today found his place taken by the diamond studded society lion who calmly puffs his cigarette while baseball empires fall.

The list of boxholders at the Polo grounds reads like a chart of patrons and patronesses in the Metropolitan Opera house.

The bleacher line Friday morning showed the effects of socialization. There were no sleepy ones outside the gate.

SPORT BRIEFS

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Archie Messiner of Menominee, Mich., out-boxed Christ Hoff of Eau Claire in a ten round bout.

NEW ORLEANS.—Jeff Smith, Bayonne middleweight outpointed Jim Darcy of Portland, Ore., in a 15-round bout.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Mich.—Sammy Mandel of Rockford, Ill., outfought Roy Miller of California, in a ten round bout.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Pennsylvania State college and the University of Washington will meet on the gridiron this fall probable at Seattle, December 10.

CITY LEAGUE BOWLING

The Maders and the Collegians won two each of their three game series Friday evening with the Krause and Shirven Clothing companies at the Lotus alleys. The La Crosse Hotels made it three straight from the La Crosse Club 60's, rolling good scores. The Arenz Shoes took two out of three from "Anonymous."

BILL FOR THANKSGIVING DINNER OF MEUSELS UP TO BROTHERS--EMIL OR BOB

NEW YORK.—The whole Meusel family, next month is sure to have a good Thanksgiving dinner, but the question of who will foot the bill remains an issue between the brothers, Emil and Bob—to be settled by their batting in the world's series.

Emil, the elder of the two, left fielder for the Giants and a National leader batting star, let it be known Thursday that he had proposed to Brother Bob, hard-hitting Yankee right fielder, a little series of their own, the one who makes least hits in the series to supply the dinner for the whole Meusel family next Monday. The younger Meusel willingly accepted.

Thursday the brothers entered the second game of the series on even terms so far as officially recorded hits are concerned. The Yankee representative member of the family made a strong bid for leadership when he hit the ball for what had the earmarks of a triple. He neglected the little formality of touching first base, however, and was declared out after he reach third, the ball being thrown to first to complete the technical out. Although deprived of a hit Bob's drive sent a run over the plate.

Emil was at bat three times and failed to connect safely. Bob was at bat four times and also stands even with his brother, with a .000 batting average.

Bob, however, connected for one in the second game of the series.

NELSONS TO FACE "LEFTY" SULLIVAN HERE ON SUNDAY

If the word of "Lefty" Sullivan is to be taken as authentic, the Nelson baseball club will be called upon to face the ex-Chicago hurler on the mound for the Genoa aggregation at Copeland park Sunday afternoon.

Sullivan wired the sporting department of the Tribune and Leader-Press on Thursday to the effect that he will drive in La Crosse Sunday in time to pitch for the down river club.

It is announced that Moppy Anderson will be in the city for the game and whether he or Schultz will occupy the slab for the Nelson club has not been declared by Manager Satek. Either Tanke or Satek will hold the backstop position.

RALPH SCOTT SIGNS WITH STALEY SQUAD TO PLAY PRO BALL

Is Fourth All-American Player of Last Season to Join Illinois Aggregation

By BOB DUNN

Ralph Scott, formerly of La Crosse and all-American tackle on the University of Wisconsin football team last year, has signed to play tackle with the Staley aggregation, one of the most prominent professional elevens in the middle west. Scott is the fourth all-American player of last season to sign with the Illinois aggregation. He will play his first game of professional ball when the Staleys meet Rock Island next Monday.

Since the opening of the conference practice season, the big tackle has been helping Coach Richards with the line. He will occupy the position with the Staleys which was vacated by Bert Ingwerson who left to help the Illinois University coaching staff.

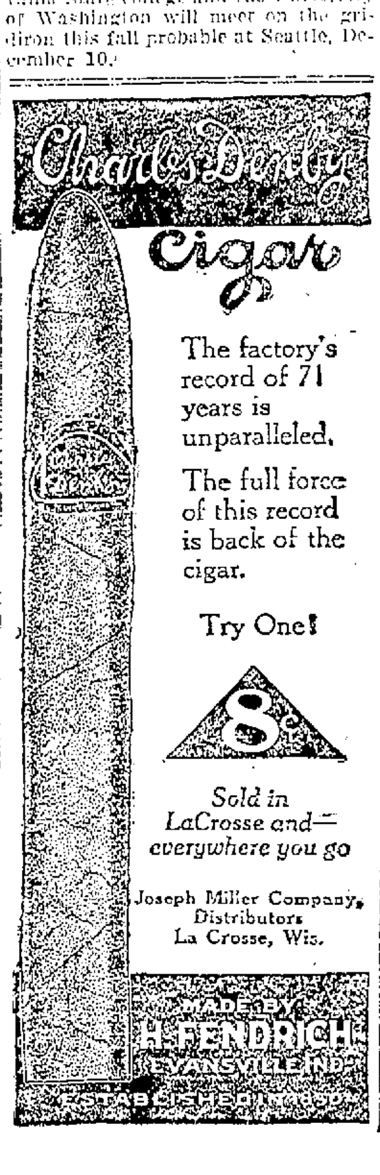

Ralph Scott is well known in La Crosse. He attended high school here and was an assistant cheerleader before going west to Montana with his family. He played no football in high school but made the freshman team at the state university and has since played four years of conference fooball where he has starred at tackle each season. Since the war Scott's condition has been seriously affected at times by his war injuries, but he is at present reported in the best of condition for the professional season on the gridiron.

AT THE THEATERS TODAY

Rivoli—Thomas Meighan in "The City of Silent Men"; Larry Semon in "The Rent Collector."

Majestic—Gladys Walton in "The Rowdy"; two new acts of vaudeville; Snub Pollard in "You're Next."

Riviera—Tom Mix in "Hands Off"; comedy, "Who's Who"; Ethel May Barker, premier violinist; Riviera orchestra.

Casino—J. Warren Kerrigan in "The House of Whispers"; Buster Keaton in "Hard Luck."

Strand—Monte Blue and Mary Thurman in "A Broken Doll"; Harold Lloyd in "Get Out and Get Under"; Fox News.

THOMAS MEIGHAN—RIVOLI

A dozen condemned men enjoyed the privilege of seeing the first motion picture ever exhibited in Sing Sing's death house through the kindness of Thomas Meighan and his director, Tom Forman, who recently presented a projection machine to the prison. Interiors of the prison are shown in Mr. Meighan's new picture, "The City of Silent Men," which closes its run at the Rivoli today.

As the deathhouse is small, the machine had to be placed twelve feet from the screen. The reels were run off twice so that the twelve men could see them through the steel-barred doors of their cells. A bed sheet, used as a screen, was stretched at the west end of the short corridor which has a row of cells on each side. When the reels were run off the sheet was shifted to the east side and the picture repeated.

Mr. Meighan recently staged an escape scene at Sing Sing for "The City of Silent Men," and he was so struck with the utter dreariness of the life of the inmates of the deathhouse that he asked Warden Lawes if a motion picture projection machine could be used there. The warden said the men might see censored pictures occasionally and the projection machine was ordered.

GLADYS WALTON—MAJESTIC

If an ordinary girl had her choice of being a lady with a stately genealogical tree, or wife to the captain of a fishing smack, it is probable she would prefer Parisian schools, party frocks and two aristocratic aunts. But she is not an ordinary girl. She is Gladys Walton, a Universal star, who has a family crest of imposing device, as any genealogical book will show.

Yet in her picture, "The Rowdy," which is on at the Majestic theater, Miss Walton chooses the humble life in a fishing village in preference to a society flapper's existence. For in the colony of sturdy fishermen, there is adventure, and the love for which every girl waits, while in the stately home she is offered, there is nothing but a monotonous stillness and the kindly affection of two old people.

The picturesque settings of "The Rowdy" make it a picture notable for its scenic beauty. It is replete with thrills—a fight with whales—the struggles between a man's desire and a girl's cleverness, a sea clash between men for supremacy in love.

TOM MIX—RIVIERA

Those who like their photoplay entertainment liberally sprinkled with thrills and excitement need go no further than the Riviera Theater, where Tom Mix, William Fox star is appearing in "Hands Off," a drama of Texas life that contains more enjoyment to the reel than three ordinary western pictures. Mix opened last night, and a typical Mix reception awaited him, for his followers in this city always look forward to a picture by the Fox star as one of the events of the season. Tom did not disappoint them, and rode, roped and shot to the satisfaction of everyone, as well as throwing in a few new special stunts, one of the stunts was he rescue of a child from in front of a herd of stampeded horses.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—CASINO

J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton Production, "The House of Whispers," a gripping mystery play by the well-known novelist and playwright, William Johnston will be shown for the last time today at the Casino Theater.

"The House of Whispers" is undoubtedly one of the finest pictures Kerrigan has produced in years and is excellently adapted to his virile, romantic type. He is seen in the role of an adventure loving young clubman who undertakes to solve a baffling mystery which surrounds "The House of Whispers," an exclusive apartment house. An ingenious crook has built "The House of Whispers" and honeycombed it with secret passageways, thus enabling him to rob the apartments of his tenants at leisure. With the aid of a beautiful girl, Spalding discovers the secret of the passage ways and exposes the criminal. Kerrigan is supported in this picture by an unusually brilliant cast. Fritzi Brunette, who has played opposite the star in many of his successes of the past year, is again seen in the leading feminine role.

"A BROKEN DOLL"—STRAND

It is amusing that Mary Thurman who won fame as one of the Mack Sennett bathing girls didn't learn to swim until after she had forsaken the aquatic comedies for serious roles in drama. She says that everyone begged for exhibitions of skill in the water, knowing she had been a Sennett girl, a fact which embarrassed her so, tremendously that she finally could stand the strain no longer and took some swimming lessons. She is now appearing in the Allan Dwan production, "A Broken Doll," which is at the Strand today.

VIVIAN JONES AND WIFE ARE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Former Resident of Bangor Meets Death Near Clear Lake, North Dakota

Vivian D. Jones, station agent in Minneapolis for the Great Northern railroad and Mrs. Jones, were crushed to death under their overturned car on the Minneapolis-Black Hills highway near Clear Lake, S. D. The couple were found dead, pinned under their car, by motorists from Gary, S. D., a few minutes after the accident occurred.

Mr. Jones was returning with his wife to Minneapolis from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. R. C. Cannon, in Watertown, S. D., when the fatal accident occurred.

There were no eye-witnesses to the accident, but indications were that Mr. Jones lost control of the car as he was descending a steep hill and that the machine upset as he tried to make a turn at the bottom.

Marvin Jones, son of the deceased, said that his father had taken the trip against his advice, because he had had a premonition that "something would happen." His father had been in ill health recently, Mr. Jones said, and he had not believed his father was capable of driving for a long distance.

Mr. Vivian Jones was born in Bangor, Wis., October 7, 1861, and the family resided in the house now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Meagel. He was a cousin of the Vaughn family of that village.

When about 10 years of age his parents removed to Eau Claire where he attended school later and entered the employ of the Omaha road. He went to the Twin Cities 40 years ago. Mrs. Jones was born in Hudson, Wis. Mr. Jones entered the employ of the Great Northern road as city ticket agent in Minneapolis in 1888. He occupied that position until March 16, 1917, when he became station agent.

Mr. Jones was active in Masonic lodge work in Minneapolis. In 1916 he was potentate of Zuhrah temple. He was a member of the Minnesota lodge No. 224, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, and a member of Minnesota commandery, lodge No. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones are survived by their son, Marvin, with whom Mr. Jones was associated in the Marvin Drug company, 3500 Chicago avenue, and their daughter, Mrs. Vera Cannon of Watertown, S. D. Victor E. Jones of Minneapolis, a brother of Mr. Jones, is a traveling passenger agent for the Great Northern. Mrs. C. J. Samuels of St. Louis, Minn., and Mrs. R. M. Roberts of Lime Springs, Iowa, are sisters of Mr. Jones.

CONVICTS FIGHT FLAMES IN STATE PRISON FACTORY

WAUPUN, Wis.—Convicts of the state prison here in relays fought Friday night against a smouldering fire in a huge pile of Mexican fibre which broke into flames at ten o'clock in the morning. Warden Coles estimated the loss at $45,000. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Scores were overcome by the dense poisonous smoke which filled the big warehouse and rolled out through the prison buildings and grounds. Three city physicians aided the prison doctor in attending the convicts and firemen who were overcome.

Fearing dangerous prisoners might launch a plan to escape, Warden Coles doubled the guard, but no disorder was reported.

LA CROSSE-TOMAH LINE-UP SATURDAY ON NORMAL GRID

Brother of Famous "Buck" O'Leary Among Men Who Represent Visitors

The La Crosse and Tomah high school football elevens were scheduled to clash at Normal field this afternoon in the first of the "conference" games for the Red and Black.

Identified among the men representing the Tomah aggregation was Dan O'Leary, brother of the famous "Buck" O'Leary, of Tomah high school fame. Young O'Leary occupies one of the halfback positions.

Alumni in large numbers were prepared to attend the contest this afternoon. All those going to the game were greeted with real football weather. The line-ups for the game this afternoon were announced as follows:

TOMAH—Center, R. Kern, Madden; guards, Olson, Burroughs, Chapman, G. Kern; tackles, Smith, Madden; ends Noth, Herman, Thompson, Fuchs; quarterback, Sawle; halves, O'Leary, Walman, Olson, Compton; full, Dickinson.

LA CROSSE—Center, Hankerson; guards, Tubias Bleckley; tackles, Liscovec, and Dunham; ends, Holley and Kilian; quarterback, Weigent; halves, Abraham, Maloney, Jorris and Hurley; full, Bateman.

MINNEAPOLIS MAN NAMED ON BADGER BOARD OF HEALTH

MADISON, Wis.—Dr. Harry M. Guilford, Minneapolis, has been appointed to a staff position with the Wisconsin state board of health, which he will assume October 12. He will be associated with the bureau of communicable diseases, in which field he has wide training.

He will be available for public health addresses and will do other field work for the department throughout the state. Dr. Guilford was commissioner of health in Minneapolis from 1915 to 1919, and for six years prior to that period was with the division of communicable diseases of the Minneapolis health department.

MAIL SACKS STOLEN IN TRANSIT FROM CANADA TO DETROIT

Mail-wagon Operating Across the Border Held up and 26 Mail Pouches are Taken

DETROIT, Mich.—Federal agents, state troopers and Detroit police joined forces Saturday in a search for four men who held up a Canadian mail wagon Friday night as it neared the main postoffice with a load of pouches from Windsor, Ont.

Meanwhile Windsor and Detroit postal officials were checking their records to determine the value of mail contained in the twenty-six bags taken by the bandits. Two of the pouches carried registered packages and early estimates placed the value as high as $100,000.

Canadian banks make a practice of sending to their Detroit correspondents each night their receipts of American money. At times these shipments amount to as much as $500,000.

William R. Macaulay, the aged driver, who has carried Canadian mail across the river in his one-horse cage wagon for seven years without molestation, told the police his four assailants were under-sized men ranging in age from 30 to 40 years. Two of them spoke with a foreign accent.

OBJECT TO STOLEN AS PROSECUTOR IN LEMBERGER CASE

Judge Hoppmann Expected to Ask Blaine to Direct Morgan to Act

MADISON, Wis.—The selection of an attorney to prosecute the murder charge against Martin Lemberger, arrested for alleged murder of his daughter, Annie, here in 1911, is holding up arrangements for a preliminary hearing on the case. District Attorney Theodore Lewis has requested to be relieved of the duty of prosecuting.

A. G. Stolen, named by Judge A. C. Hoppmann in superior court, as his selection for prosecutor, has been objected to. Judge Hoppmann has asked that briefs be presented to him bringing out the reasons for objection.

The judge will see Governor Blaine Monday, when he returns to Madison, in an effort to have him direct the attorney general to prosecute. The governor has previously intimated that he desired to take no such action.

14-YEAR-OLD BOY HELD FOR MURDER OF LAWRENCE GIRL

MADISON, N. J.—Francis Kluxen, a 14-year-old boy, was held by the police Saturday on a charge of murder of Janet Lawrence, aged 12.

The little girl's body was found Friday in a dump of woods owned by the Kluxen boy's father, Janet, according to the police, had been trussed up hand and foot with a rope, attacked and then stabbed twenty-five times. One stroke of the knife severed the jugular vein.

Young Kluxen denied all knowledge of the crime.

SPENCER FOUND GUILTY

LAKEPORT, Calif.—J. A. Spencer, former clergyman, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a superior court jury Saturday in connection with the death of his wife, whose body was recovered from Clear Lake near here July 27.—Recommendation that Spencer be sentenced to life imprisonment was made.

ELLA LARSON FILES DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST ABRAHAM IN COURT

Onalaska Girl Seeks Damages as Result of Auto Ride in Which She Jumped from Car

The damage suit for $5,000 brought by Ella Larson of Onalaska, against George Abraham, has been filed in the circuit court. No answer to the suit has been filed as yet. Adverse examinations of both Miss Larson and Abraham have been held. The suit is the outgrowth of a meeting between Abraham and Miss Larson at a dance in West Salem, on the night of August 5. Abraham, it is alleged, offered to buy Miss Larson a soft drink. He took her to the main street of West Salem and afterwards drove out toward the county asylum. In the complaint Miss Larson charges Abraham "wickedly, wrongfully, willfully and maliciously assaulted the plaintiff and threatened this plaintiff whereby this defendant put the plaintiff in fear for her life and that by reason of such assault and fear resulting therefrom the plaintiff in order to protect herself from said assault jumped from a rapidly moving automobile driven by the defendant." Miss Larson claims that her dress was torn, that she was made lame and sore through jumping from the motor and striking the ground and that she had to have medical attention.

AMERICAN WEDS GREEK PRINCESS IN PARIS TODAY

PARIS.—William B. Leeds, Jr., son of Princess Anastasia of Greece, and the late William B. Leeds, the "tinplate king" of Richmond, Ind., and Princess Xenia, niece of King Constantine of Greece, were married by civil ceremony here at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The princess Xenia is the second daughter of Grand Duke Mikhailovitch of Russia, who married the Princess Marie Georgievna of Greece, a sister of King Constantine. Both Leeds and the princess are 19 years of age.

The wedding Saturday was the French civil ceremony. Sunday two more ceremonies will occur, the first at the American Church of the Holy Trinity and the third at the Russian church.

ASK FURTHER INQUIRY INTO KOLZE MURDERS

CHICAGO, Ill.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kolze and John Demmer, Schiller Park residents whose exhumed bodies showed traces of poisoning, died from the effects of poison administered by unknown persons, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury Friday. The jury recommended further investigation. Mrs. Mary Demmer, wife of John Demmer, has been held under $5,000 bonds in connection with the case.

STATE WINS OVER INSURANCE COMPANIES

JACKSON, Miss.—Completed victory was won by the state revenue agent over the 130 fire insurance companies, defendants in the anti-trust suit, in a decision Saturday by Chancellor V. J. Striker, who ruled that the Mississippi inspection and advisory rating bureau was merely the old Southeastern Tariff association barred from the state fifteen years ago, in disguise.

RESUME "LITTLE SERIES"

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—After a day of rest the Louisville and Baltimore clubs will resume play in the junior world series here Saturday afternoon. The weather forecast for today is fair with rising temperature. With the series standing one each both managers plan to make a strong bid for the third game of the interleague series.

FINE CONCERT IS GIVEN BY BERGH PIANO COMPANY

Famous Soloists Brought Here to Entertain Music Lovers of the City

A thousand music lovers of La Crosse were the guests of the Bergh Piano company last night at a delightful recital given by Miss Helen Davis, mezzo-soprano, Mr. Victor Young, composer-pianist, and Mr. Samuel Hungerford, violinist. Many late comers who found all the seats taken decided to linger for courtesy's sake until the end of the number but remained in spite of the discomfort of standing throughout the program held by the excellence of the artists and the fascinating accuracy of the tone reproduction in the Edison Re-Creations.

A charming little person, with a mezzo-soprano voice, sweet, clear and beautifully varied in tone quality, Miss Davis was immediately popular with the audience. Through several numbers she alternated with the Edison Re-Creation of her own voice playing a merry game with the audience now singing with orchestra or piano accompaniment from the Edison machine, now ceasing abruptly to allow her own re-created voice faultlessly to continue the melody, now feigning to sing and allowing her confused listeners to wonder what they were really hearing, Miss Davis or the reproduction of her voice. There was no more delightful number on the program than the duet, "Danube River," Miss Davis singing one part, her reproduced voice carrying the other.

At the end of the program Miss Davis sang "Good Morning, Brother Sunshine," by Liza Lehmann and "The Clock" by Grant Schaefer, Mr. Young playing her accompaniment. The insistent audience demanding one more, she sang a clever and amusing little song called "The Little Pig Nose (Knows)" written by Mr. Young, and just coming out this fall.

The composer-pianist, Mr. Victor Young, was an unusually interesting person, rather surprisingly versatile. A mighty good pianist, a first rate accompanist, represented on the program by two distinctly original and very interesting "Improvisations" and the clever little song previously alluded to, he managed the performance and that most competently.

"What was that solo?" we asked. "We didn't recognize it."

"Oh, that," said he depreeatingly, a bit embarrassed, "that was very bad, just an improvisation of my own."

"Bad?" we exclaimed. "We thought it extremely good, that's why we asked."

Those were excellent records of piano compositions. The piano has seemed so different to reproduce and the records have sounded more often like a harp than a piano. But these particularly the "crescendo," were truly piano re-creations and Mr. Young proved it as thoroughly as had Miss Davis with the voice records.

Mr. Hungerford has a more difficult task in a way since he was playing with re-creations not of his own work but of soli of Mr. Albert Spalding, but he accomplished his difficult task very convincingly showing particular skill in the popular "Meditation" (Thais) by Massenet. The "Theme and Variations," Tartini-Kreisler, was a taxing demonstration of Mr. Hungerford's technical ability, the "Canzonetta" by Ambrosio, a delightful sample of his taste and delicacy of interpretation.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS REDUCTION IN WHEAT POTATOES IMPROVED

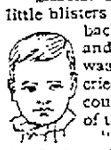

WASHINGTON. — Spring wheat production showed a reduction of almost 13,200,000 bushels and corn a reduction of 22,800,000 bushels compared with a month ago, the department of agriculture's October report Saturday indicated. White potatoes prospects, however, showed a increase of 22,800,000 bushels and tobacco an increase of 43,200,000 pounds.

PROBE DEATH OF WOMAN AT KENOSHA

KENOSHA, Wis.—Vito Scolerio and Jerry Scolerio, a brother, are held here pending an investigation into the death of Mrs. Clara Leonard, a Kenosha woman, who died Thursday evening. It is alleged that the woman was taken very ill after she had drunk a glass of liquid at a place operated by the Scolerio brothers. The coroner started a probe into the case Saturday morning and he is being assisted by the district attorney. The daughter of the woman told the officer that she did not know what the liquid was, but that it was "hard stuff."

"THE HOUSE OF SATISFACTION"

FIELDS

425 Main St., La Crosse, Wis. Phone 154.

During the Past Year

Many of our patrons have asked us a number of questions that have been unsettled in their minds.

One woman wanted to know why Fields spent so much money in establishing themselves in La Crosse.

This is easily answered: The reason we spent over $16,500 in erecting our shoppe is mainly for the reasons that we wanted to place in La Crosse a shoppe that would appeal to the masses of people, we wanted a shoppe that people would talk about, that people would find pleasure in visiting, and comfort in while shopping.

We wanted a store here that would really be an asset to La Crosse, as well as to FIELDS, and a store that you could conscientiously talk about to your friends. We have obtained these principles mainly through the shrewd expenditure of money, and we feel proud of having the most exclusive and newest up-to-date apparel "shoppe" in this city.

Another woman was skeptical about purchasing a fur coat from us at $375.00 because she was told by some competitive merchant that FIELDS would not stay in La Crosse over six months, and that our guarantee would be worthless. However we closed this transaction on our good business principles and the merits of our garment.

We want to impress upon our patrons that FIELDS are in "La Crosse to stay". Our lease which runs for a large number of years affords just proof of our intentions. Our expenditure of a large sum of money to give La Crosse its most beautiful apparel shoppe also shows our intentions and the splendid support we have received from the start makes us a permanent establishment in the mercantile business of La Crosse.

Still another wanted to know why retail prices have tumbled so severely since we opened up in La Crosse.

This we can take no direct credit for, for with all due respects to our fellow merchants, who are abreast with the times, the tumbling of prices was wholly due to market conditions in the needle industry.

However, as from the start, we have always given our customers 100 cents for every dollar expended in our store and this policy we will always follow.

One of our patrons wanted to know why so many outside clerks continually knocked our merchandise and our store.

In this respect we never offer any opposition. We are content with letting well enough alone, our merchandise is never sold on what our competitors say, but is wholly sold on its merits. We have gained a large number of friends in La Crosse just through honesty and being open and above board in all transactions and we expect to make more and more friends as the years roll by.

Today we consider the woman as a shrewd shopper, who knows values, merchandise and style and therefore we never force a sale.

Never will we allow a transaction to go through which will later reflect on our business. We want to build our business on its merits and we cheerfully make good on all merchandise that does not prove satisfactory, and we know we have been truthful and just in all transactions during the past year.

We are going to make a lot of new friends during the balance of this month, we expect to create a tremendous demand for FIELDS' merchandise in La Crosse and vicinity, and now that our plans are completed for our First Anniversary Sale we are ready to announce in tomorrow's paper

Our First Anniversary Sale

This sale is more than an ordinary sale, it is going to be a Super-Sale, one that will be the talk of La Crosse and vicinity and one that you will be pleased to partake of.

We have spent six weeks in gathering our stocks from our best manufacturer friends in Ne wYork and through our many cash purchases and through the large concessions rendered by these manufacturers, we are in a position to offer Super-Values in Women's and Misses' Cloth Coats, Plush Coats, Fur Coats, Chappie Coats, Rain and Storm Coats, Silk Dresses, Evening Dresses, Afternoon Dresses, Wool Dresses, Jersey Dresses, new Fall Suits, new Blouses, new Millinery, etc.

See our ad in Sunday's Tribune for the Super-Sale of the year.

This sale will continue as long as we can replenish our stocks at super-price offerings during the month of October.

Oils and Tobaccos Only Feature of Trading in Week-end Market

NEW YORK—Oils and tobaccos were the only conspicuous features of Saturday's brief stock market. The former, especially the domestic group, were bought on additional advances in prices of raw products and the latter responded to short covering. Final favorites of the industrial and railway divisions were dull and irregular.

Heavy selling of Columbia Graphophone preferred was the only striking feature among specialties. The close was firm. Sales approximated 30,000 shares. The recent active demand for Liberty bonds gained further momentum, all the 4¼s making high records for the year at gains of 25 to 50 points.

Few changes of note occurred at the irregular opening of the market. Mexican Petroleum was the only permanent stock to reflect further pressure, losing one point. Sumatra, American Sugar and Great Northern ore were fractionally lower. Royal Dutch, Kelly-Springfield, White Motor and several of the cheaper rails were higher by fractions to one point. Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke led the specialties at a two point rise. Liberty second, third and fourth 4¼s made new high records on early gains of 25 to 50 points.

WHEAT AT NEW LOW MARK

Rally After Weak Opening Fails to Hold and Prices Tumble

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat sold at a new low on the opening of the Board of Trade Saturday. The start was unsettled, but lower to 1c higher with December $1.00 to $1.01 and May $1.12½ to $1.13½. General selling of May by commission houses and of December by Northwest interests drove prices down. A rally resulted on evening-up in anticipation of the government report due late in the day but when this decided downturn come there was lack of support and the heavy undertone took December to $1.00 and May to $1.12¾.

A rapid rally at the close caused by scattered buying and reported sale of two cargoes to India caught the local professional element in an oversold condition. The final figures were $1.00 to ¾ for December and $1.12¾ to $1.14 for May.

Corn also made a new low for the crop with cash and commission houses on the selling side. December started at 48¼c to ½c and May 54¾ to ⅞c. At the end of the first hour prices were 48¼c and 53¾c respectively.

The late rally in wheat pulled corn up only slightly. At the close December was 47¾c to ⅝c and May 53⅛ to ¼c.

Oats were off with other grains, the opening was unchanged to ⅛c lower with December 33⅝ to ⅜c and May 37⅞c. The sag took December to 33¾c. Provisions were dull.

CLEMENCEAU TAKING THE "SILENCE CURE" ON ISLE OF CORSICA

Tiger Says He Has Had to Talk too Much in Recent Years and Wants a Rest

PARIS.—Former Premier Clemenceau took his recent "silence cure" in a medieval castle perched 1,500 feet above the blue waters of the Mediterranean at Olivese, on the island of Corsica.

Nicholas Pietri, the owner of the castle, has been a lifelong friend and newspaper associate of Clemenceau. Pietri is as deaf as the proverbial post.

"I have travelled a lot since the armistice," the former premier is reported to have said, "but in India, Egypt, the Soudan, everywhere I have been, I have had to talk too much. Now I want I want is silence. Am I sure to get that with Pietri? He is so deaf that I won't be tempted to volunteer any small talk to him and he is very useful in not asking questions, recluding that the effort required for me to answer him is too much for my old lungs."

Despite Clemenceau's plea of weakness and his age—81 years—he looks as sturdy as the oaks surrounding the castle.

There are those who insist that the Tiger intends to re-enter the political arena and that in the peace and quietness of the little island which gave birth to Napoleon, he has been preparing for a re-entry into public life that may be almost as startling as that of the little Corporal.

"FOUR HORSEMEN" TELLS A STORY OF DRAMATIC POWER

Special Music Score Written for Picture by Ernest Luz, Metro Music Director

Beginning Sunday matinee, the attraction at the Riviera theater will be the Metro Pictures corporation's prodigious production of Rex Ingram's picturization of Ibanez' great novel, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." No picture ever made contains, as this one does, all the elements which combine to make a story of intense dramatic power. Beginning as it does on the broad wind-swept plains of the Argentine, it then passes through to Paris, where the audience is shown the vital life of the wonderful French capital immediately prior to the great war. The story has to do with the effects of war upon two families, cousins through their mothers, one the Desnoyers and the von Hartrotts, respectively French and German. One must see this photo-drama in order to appreciate the entire justice of its claim to be "the greatest motion picture ever produced."

Probably the most ambitious musical score ever prepared for a photoplay is the one which accompanies "The Four Horsemen." Ernest Luz, chef d'orchestra for the Metro corporation, who has made a special study of the use of music in connection with screen productions, has written a complete score for the picture under the direction of Mr. Ingram, its director. Instead of using bits of popular selections, as frequently is done, Mr Luz composed an original score to accompany the picture from the first scene to the final "shot." As a preliminary to this undertaking, he not only had frequent conferences with Mr. Ingram, but he watched the photographing of many of the big scenes, both at Metro's Hollywood studios and on "locations" in the foothills of the San Bernardinos.

The cast presenting "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is in all probability one of the most important ever assembled for any picture and includes Rudolph Valentino, Alice Terry, Wallace Beery, Stuart Holmes, John Sunpolis, Pomeroy Cannon, Nigel de Brulier, Mabel Van Buren, Joseph Swickard, Brinsley Shaw, Jacques d'Auray, Broadwich Turner, Alan Hale, Derek Ghent, Edward Connelly, Mlle. Dolorez, "Bull" Montana, Isabel Keith, Georgia Woodthrope, Noble Johnson, Minnehaha, Arthur Hoyt, Beatriz Dominez, Virginia Warwick, Harry Northrup, Kathleen Key, Brigetta Clark, and two score others of equal prominence with an ensemble of 12,000 extras. The symphony orchestra will accompany "The Four Horsemen" at every performance.

$3.50 French Pack Beauty Treatment 10¢

The wonderful French Pack Beauty Treatments that leading beauty specialists charge $3.50 to $5.00 for a single treatment are now put up in a 3-oz. $1.00 jar containing 10 treatments—A French Pack Treatment now costs you only 10 cents, placing these truly wonderful beauty treatments within the reach of every one. Take only one treatment, immediately you will notice a tightening of the skin—lines around the eyes and mouth disappear—starts immediate circulation—builds firm tissue—makes the skin glow with new life. Blackheads disappear as if by magic—they are tiny particles of dust which no soap and water can reach, but McDonald's French Pack dips down into these pores and removes all Blackheads. Dries up pimples instantly—removes all scars and blemishes—clears the skin, and takes away dead tissues.
For that coat of Freckles, Tan or Sunburn, there's nothing so soothing and cooling as a French Pack treatment—doesn't irritate in the least—a single treatment and the lighter Freckles entirely disappear—two or three treatments and all Freckles disappear, rendering the texture of the skin, finer, firmer and of a delicate, velvety white. Our guarantee—if a single application of McDonald's French Pack does not produce a greater improvement in your complexion than any beauty preparation you have ever used, we will refund your money. Sold by all druggists or mailed postpaid on receipt of $1.04.

Proved! Yesterday! to La Crosse!

Big Audience at La Crosse Theatre Hears Helen Davis and Victor Young in EDISON Tone-Test

In a test of direct comparison, made yesterday at La Crosse Theatre, before a large audience, the New Edison scored a complete and convincing triumph.

Helen Davis, the famous mezzo-soprano, sang in direct comparison with the RE-CREATION of her voice by the New Edison. To every ear, there was no difference between her living voice and her RE-CREATED voice.

This is the most drastic phonograph test known. No other phonograph has ever sustained it. No other phonograph has even attempted it.

The New Edison's marvelous performance of yesterday vindicates everything that has been said or claimed for its perfect realism.

Helen Davis stood on the stage next to a shapely Chippendale cabinet. She began to sing. Her golden notes soared over the auditorium, bringing all under its magic spell.

Halfway through her song, she suddenly stopped singing. The New Edison, at her side, took up her song,—and continued it alone.

Singer and phonograph thus alternated, throughout the song.

The only way the audience could be sure which was singing, was by watching Miss Davis' lips,—so exactly like the living voice was the RE-CREATED voice.

Victor Young made the same test of comparison with the RE-CREATIONS of his piano selections. Again the same result—there was no difference between the RE-CREATED performance and the living performance.

Proof was piled upon proof! Evidence was massed on evidence! The end of the concert found the audience absolutely and completely convinced, through its own personal experience, that there is no difference between an artist's living performance and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison,—that listening to the New Edison is, in literal truth, the same as listening to the living artists.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph With a Soul"

Only one question can still bother your mind. This question we now answer.

The instrument used in yesterday's tests was not a special model. It was an Official Laboratory Model, taken from regular stock. Every Official Laboratory Model in our stock is guaranteed to sustain the same test of direct comparison with living artists.

You can have an Official Laboratory Model in your home. You can own an instrument which will do everything done yesterday in the test. Come in. Hear the wonderful Official Laboratory Model for yourself.
